HOW MUCH TO INSURE

The sum insured for the structure of the house is based on the Reinstatement Value. Quite simply, it would be the reconstruction value for the structure is determined by the construction cost. This however would not include the cost of the land. The reconstruction cost is based on two parameters which are mentioned below:

- Built-up area of the house (square feet)
- Cost of Construction in your area/ locality

You would have to multiply the built up area of the house with the cost of construction to arrive at the reconstruction cost. Reconstruction Cost = Built – up area of the house * Cost of construction in your area/ locality.

Contents/ Valuables : The sum insured for Contents/ Valuables is based on the market value. Market Value would mean the current cost minus an allowance for depreciation, in the event of loss/damage.
